After more than 20 years of teaching experience, including a temporary professorship in Hanover, Konrad Maria Engel is now working as a professor at „Hanns Eisler“ university. Also, he is head of piano department at „Bach-Gymnasium“ Berlin.

Before he has chosen to reduce his international career as concert artist after almost 30 years to a minimum and rather focus on pedagogical aspects, he performed with numerous renowned orchestras and at several international festivals.

His own academic studies were crowned by the „Konzertexamen“ with Prof. K.-H. Kämmerling in 2006. Many international masterclasses completed his artistic education, such as the Wilhelm-Kempff-Academy with John O’Conor. During these years he won numerous awards, scholarships and was supported by the national concert agency.

By now amongst his students are many prizewinners at international competitions.

Konrad Engel is giving international masterclasses also regarding methodology, improvisation and music theory.
